

The EU Loneliness Survey

The EU Loneliness Survey was conducted in November and December 2022 and consists of two samples. This questionnaire refers to the EU27 sample and was administered online targeting the general population aged 16 and above in all 27 EU Member States. Data were collected for a total of 25,646 respondents, recruited from consumer panels through the Cint platform. The survey was designed by the by the Joint Research Centre (JRC) of the European Commission and conducted by VVA Market Research.

Introduction

Welcome!

Thank you for your interest in this survey, which is being conducted as part of a research project looking at well-being across the European Union. The survey has been designed and funded by the European Commission and is being conducted by VVA Market Research. It will take about 25 minutes to complete.

Please read all the information and answer the questions carefully. There are no right or wrong answers to questions asked in the survey. It is your honest opinion that matters to us.

In addition to other topics, we will ask few questions related to your health, sexual orientation and political opinion. Rest assured that a "Prefer not to say" option will always be available if you feel uncomfortable answering such questions. Your answers throughout this survey will be kept confidential. The European Commission will not receive any information that would allow you to be identified. Your responses will be grouped together with the responses provided by all participants and your personal data will be held for no longer than 18 months. Your answers will be used strictly for research purposes and may be used to inform policy. Anonymised data from this survey – without any of your personal information included – may be made publicly available for further research.

Participation in the survey is voluntary and you may withdraw consent at any time.

Experiment

Next, we will move on to something slightly different. More specifically, we will ask you to complete one short task.

You have an opportunity to earn up to ____ survey points on top of those you will earn for the survey itself. The number of points you can earn will depend on the decisions you make as well as the decisions that other people filling in this same survey may make. We explain how this works later.

Because many people will fill in this survey, we cannot give everyone additional points. Instead, we will draw every 25th survey respondent filling in this survey, and if you are selected, you will earn additional points. If you are selected, the number of points you will receive will correspond to your earnings in the next task.

Your payment will be processed once everyone has completed the survey. As other people may not be online at the same time as you, this may take a while. We will inform you by email of the final results.

Please, read the task description carefully. We will ask you two questions regarding the content of the description on the next page. In the task, there are two participants: A and B.

The rules of the task are as follows:

At the beginning of the task, both participants receive 5 coins. A coin is equivalent to ____ survey points.

A can then choose to give none, some or all of the 5 coins to B. For example, A could send 2 coins.
[Alternative example with 3 coins]

Whatever A sends to B is multiplied by three.

If B receives coins from A, then B can send none, some or all of the received coins back to A. These coins are not multiplied again. Also, B can only send back the coins received from A, not the original 5 coins. For example, B could send back 4 coins.

After both A and B have made their decisions, both participants keeps the number of coins they have at that moment.

Before proceeding to the next page, we kindly ask you to read the instructions carefully.

To test whether you understood the rules, please read through the scenario and answer the question below. Participants A and B start with 5 coins. Suppose A and B make the following decisions: (i) A sends 2 coins to B. (ii) B sends 1 coin back to A.

(55) comprehension_a

How many coins does A end up with in this scenario?

TYPE	CONSTRAINT
INTEGER	.=>0 AND .<=99

(56) comprehension_b

How many coins does B end up with in this scenario?

TYPE	CONSTRAINT
INTEGER	.=>0 AND . <=99
TYPE	RELEVANT
MESSAGE	$\{comprehension_1\}=4$ and $\{comprehension_2\}=10$

Please go on to the real task.

TYPE	RELEVANT
MESSAGE	$\{comprehension_1\}!=4$ or $\{comprehension_2\}!=10$

Unfortunately, you answered the question incorrectly. The outcome is actually as follows: (i) A starts with 5 coins, gives away 2 coins and gets 1 coin back. Therefore, A ends up with $5 - 2 + 1 = 4$ coins; (ii) B starts with 5 coins, receives 6 coins from A (2×3) and gives one coin back. Therefore, B ends up with $5 + 6 - 1 = 10$ coins. Please go on to the real task.

(57) a_play

You are in the role of A. You and B begin with 5 coins each.

[To appear only for 50% of respondents playing A: B has reported feeling lonely all or almost all of the time during the past four weeks. B knows nothing about you.]

How many coins (if any) would you like to send to B? Your choice will affect how many points you and the other participant will receive at the end of the task.

Please enter a number from 0 to 5.

TYPE	CONSTRAINT
INTEGER	.=>0 AND . <=5

(58) a_guess

Imagine you sent 3 coins, so B receives 9 coins, making his or her total budget 14 coins. How many coins do you think B will return to you? You might gain one extra coin if your guess is correct.

TYPE	CONSTRAINT
INTEGER	.=>0 AND . <=9

(59) b_play

You are in the role of B. You and A begin with 5 coins each.

[To appear only for 50% of respondents playing B: A has reported feeling lonely all or almost all of the time during the past four weeks. A knows nothing about you.]

Below, we show all number of coins you can receive from A, which we have already multiplied by 3 for you. For each of these, how many coins (if any) would you like to send back to A? All of your choices below affect how many points you and the other participant you are paired with may receive at the end of the task.

If A sent you 1 coin and hence you received 3 coins?

If A sent you 2 coins and hence you received 6 coins?

If A sent you 3 coins and hence you received 9 coins?

If A sent you 4 coins and hence you received 12 coins?

If A sent you 5 coins and hence you received 15 coins?

TYPE	CONSTRAINT
INTEGER	.=>0 AND . <=X

(60) b_guess

How many coins do you think A will send you? You might gain one extra coin if your guess is correct.

TYPE	CONSTRAINT
INTEGER	.=>0 AND . <=5

(61) proximity

When you made your decision, you may have been thinking of your potential counterpart in the task (participant X). Please consider which of these pairs of circles best represents your connection with participant X.

This was the last question about the task. You will now return to the survey.
